why attend?

Industry is faced with an ever increasing and complex responsibility to protect the environment. In the last few years, the number of federal and state environmental regulations have grown by tens of thousands of pages and reach into more industries than ever before. This course will assist the novice and expert in understanding and applying these requirements. For those new to environmental compliance, we'll help you solve the mystery behind these regulatory requirements. You'll learn practical concepts and practices you can use on the job every day. Experts in compliance will be updated on changes, refreshed on established issues and positioned to learn new skills. Whether inexperienced or seasoned, you will learn the requirements associated with multi-media (air, water and land) environmental programs. The diverse background and experience of the speakers (regulators, engineers and attorneys) and your fellow attendees will enhance the learning experience and provide a lasting network of resources to consult as you cope with future on the job challenges.

The speakers were amazing. They explained all topics so that it was understandable to everyone, regardless of experience level. I was very comfortable listening to their presentations. As a new environmental personnel, I appreciate all the additional information, along with the list of acronyms! It made the topics more understandable and the lectures easier to stay tuned in to. VERY informative!

— Lisa Khourie, Alltech, Inc.

Very good presentations, very knowledgeable presenters.

— Craig Ousley, ICI Services, LLC

Speakers were excellent! Very informative.
